WORKERS ASKED NOT TO BUY RED CROSS GOODS LOCALLY

Divisions, groups and individuals who assist with the work of the Canadian Red Cross Society have been requested to make all their purchases of Red Cross goods from their local agents and wholesalers in their localities, the national purchasing agent of the Society told a meeting of the national chairman of the women's work committees held in Toronto.

Quotas are granted to the society, she said, and when purchases are made individually it not only endangers the society's quota, but also devalues the merchandise which is vitally needed civilian goods.

Application For Power Maintainer Turned Down

At the regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Mountain View No. 280, held at Didsbury on Monday, March 5th, all councillors were present with the exception of Councillor J.J. Nidrie. This was the last meeting of the old council.

A report on the "Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act was received and the position of the Municipality was not altered.

On a second order for a power road maintainer, placed by the municipality, the application was turned down by War-time Prices and Trade Board. However, the Council were informed that the War-time Prices and Trade Board had appointed a power road maintainer that was for sale and a committee was appointed to investigate, and if suitable same will be purchased.

Approval was given to six tax consolidations.

Arrangements were made to lease the S.E. 11-30-28-1 for the year 1946.

The basic price to be set on lands under the arrangement was determined to be $100 per acre, which is to be paid monthly, and the amount that was for sale and a committee was appointed to investigate, and if suitable same will be purchased.

CRYSTAL DAIRY IS ALMOST COMPLETED

The new Crystal Dairy building at Didsbury, which has been under construction for the past four months, is almost completed and the new equipment is being installed. New equipment has been added to take care of the increasing business and the new dairy here is said to be one of the finest in Alberta outside of the cities.

The new building is equipped with 250 cold storage lockers and these will be ready for use just as soon as the machinery arrives. This equipment is expected shortly and the production plant should be in operation in time to permit farmers to get in their summer's meat supply before the spring work commences.

DIDSURY FLIER AMAZED AT BOMBERS OVER REICH

For the second time in little less than a week, the Didsbury Bombers met the German Bombers over the Rhine near Frankfurt and pilots said there were so many planes over the target "we couldn't miss." All planes returned safely.

Maintain is of vital importance as a communications centre through which the Germans have been trying to rush supplies to the Western Front.

Canadian flyers were impressed by the number of Allied aircraft in the air.

"They formed a column of black dots as far as you could see," said F.O. J. Black of Winnipeg, navigator with the Goose Squadron.

Major Kercher of the Ironsides Squadron, pilot from Didsbury, Alta., told of hundreds of American bombers which the Canadians met over the western front.

FIRE DESTROYES BOLES HOUSE

The fire started from an overheated stove and had gained considerable headway between the ceiling and roof of the building before it was noticed. The alarm was sounded at 1:30 and by the time the fire fighting equipment arrived on the scene the fire was out of control and nothing could be done to save the structure, which burned to the ground.

Building A Better World

PEOPLE EVERYWHERE ARE LOOKING forward to the return of peace. Those whose countries have suffered destruction because of the war, are anticipating the time when their land will be restored and their homes rebuilt. The service men and women look forward to returning to their homes and to rehabilitation in civilian life. Civilians in this country likewise look forward to the return of those in the services, and to the lifting of wartime restrictions. Although the coming of peace may not have the same significance for everyone, there is the common hope among all people that the world of the future will be a better place in which to live. There is now a great deal of interest in the means by which improved conditions may be brought about, and there are many approaches to this problem through the channels of politics, economics, science, social reform, education, public health and others.

Some Measures Now Drawn Up

Some measures are being made to better conditions along many lines and some measures, including unemployment insurance and post-war housing projects, have already been drawn up. However, there is much that will have to wait until the war no longer makes so many demands upon our manpower and our financial resources. One fundamental need which should receive the attention and support of both the government and the people in the post-war years, is that of education. We are often reminded of the magnificent manner in which the youth of the country has responded to the heavy demands made upon during this war. Given training and instruction, young people have shown themselves to be capable of performing the most difficult and exacting tasks with courage, confidence and initiative.

Money Needed For Education

If so much can be expected of youth in time of war, the question arises as to why can young people should not be given every opportunity to share in the work of nation-building in time of peace. One means of increasing their opportunities lies in extending and improving our educational facilities. Authorities in this field have put much thought into the question of organizing our schools to meet more effectively the needs of students of different ages. Changes and advances in education, as in any other line of endeavour, require money and it is estimated that the present yearly expenditure on schools in Canada, which amounts to $146,832,642 should be almost doubled, and that in addition a capital expenditure of nearly $600,000 should be provided to enable our educational system to contribute its full share towards the future welfare of the nation. The amounts required are large but the public should give careful consideration to the possibilities of making our schools one approach to the task of building a better world.

Price Control And Rationing Information

My son is leaving for a short trip into the States. Will I be able to use his ration book while he is away?

A. You will not be able to use this ration book. Ration regulations state that a consumer must not use a ration book belonging to a person who has left Canada, even if that person is away for only a few days. If a person leaves Canada expecting to be gone for 60 days or more, he must first turn in his ration book to the Board. If he neglects to turn it in, anyone who has the book in his possession must turn it in.

Q. Is the "Old To Russia Clothing Campaign" to be discontinued?

A. Since the Wartime Prices and Trade Board does not have control over our supply problem, the campaign for clothing for Russia has been halted. There are to be no new radio or press appeals for clothing. This does not interfere with those wishing to give cash donations to the Russian fund.

Q. What should I do with my late mother's ration book?

A. Ration books or cards of deceased persons must be surrendered promptly to the Local Ration Board.

Q. Must I take my ration book with me when I enter the hospital?

A. If you will be in the hospital for two weeks or longer, you must carry your ration book will be removed, but no coupons are turned over if you are in for less than two weeks.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "How to Buy War and Peace Blue Book" in which we keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

SMILE AWHILE

"Who's waiting at this table?" demanded the irate customer.

"You, madam," said the busy waitress, "until your turn comes."

Prisoner—Everything I do, I do fast.

Under-taker: Are you one of the mourners?"

Scotsman: "I am, sir. The deceased owned me $10."

Mother: "Harry, where are the apples gone that were in the cellar?"

Harry (after much hesitation): "They are with the ones that were in the cupboard, ma."

Gentleman: "You're an honest lad, but it was a $10.00 bill, not to ones."

Small Boy: "I know, mister. It was a $10.00 bill I picked up. But the last time I found one, the man who dropped it didn't have any change."

"And what is the baby's name?" asked the chaplain softly.

The sailor smiled proudly as he hoisted the little fellow up on his arm. "Chamney William Robert Montgomery Sterling."

Up shot the chaplain's eyebrows as he turned to his assistant. "More water please."

"And who may be the darling sweetheart that put that there mustard on the table?" asked the orderly sergeant with disgust.

"The captain did," answered Private Jones cheerfully.

"Oh!" ejaculated the sergeant, then after a pause, "pretty, ain't it?"

"It's going to sue the company for damages."

"Why did they do that to him?"

They blew the dinner whistle when he was carrying a "cavy piece of iron, and 'e dropped it on 'is foot."

"Never, never has any time for fun."

"Then how come you find him at every picnic?"

Young New Brunswick Student Won Scholarship The Hard Way

From the University of New Brunswick comes the story of a college freshman whose desire for an education led him to surmount insurmountable obstacles.

Rodd Scott, of Gloucester county, this Fall entered UNB, as the Beavercrook scholarship winner for the northern part of the province. The 18-year-old lad's home is on a farm 10 miles from Bathurst, where his father carries on salmon fishing in addition to farming. One of six children, Rod covered grades I to VIII in a rural school one mile from his home.

Since it was impossible for him to live into the Bathurst High School, he enrolled in the New Brunswick Correspondence School. For three years he helped his father with his work and farming and, at the same time completed the work of grades IX, X and XI. Last July he wrote his matriculation examination at Bathurst, passing with first division marks and winning the Beavercrook scholarship for Northern New Brunswick, a scholarship which will cover the entire cost of his four year course in electrical engineering. Churchill's Letter To Dictator Of Spain Was Quite Clear

Churchill's Jan. 18 remark that Britain did not need Spain "because we have no bushiness which requires the support of such powers," was followed up by a personal letter to

Churchill wrote: "We are in Spain's influence."

To Aid Reconstruction

Requests For U.S. Loans Now At $20,000,000,000.00

Unofficial estimates indicate an accumulation of requests for United States loans to aid reconstruction of certain United Nations amounting to $20,000,000,000.

Nothing can be done about it unless Congress removes loans on loans and loan possibly it will all be taken care of by the international bank proposed at the Bretton Woods conference.

MADE PERFECT TARGET

The music in the Auld Kirk was evidently confined to hymns and psalms.

The idea of a Presbyterian choir singing an anthem, no matter who they would have been as abhorrent to the parishioners as the "kist o' whistles". Such were the views of the old minister of Newhills kirk and now that he has retired and gone to Argyleshire, which is about as far away as he could get from Newhills, the modern congregation has bought an organ.

There is an office of preacher in English cathedrals, but he is probably a minor canon who arranges the musical part of the service. Or he may be the first tenor of the choir.

THE RED CROSS NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

The 1945 campaign of the Canadian Red Cross Society to raise ten million dollars in Canada is now on and local branches all across the dominion have set up organizations to aid in the collection. The Didsbury branch, which has been one of the most active in the province, has made all arrangements for the campaign here, and the canvassers will make a thorough canvas of town and district within the next three weeks. So be ready with your donation when your Red Cross collector calls.

The need for funds is greater now than ever before. Millions of people in the liberated countries are destitute. The highways of Europe are choked with hungry, homeless people. They turn to the Red Cross as to a never-failing friend. It is our privilege now to live up to that faith—to help them in their urgent need.

And that is only part of it. Food parcels must go forward to keep our prisoners of war alive and in good health until they are repatriated and homeward bound again. We have news of the arrival of a shipment of one million food parcels for distribution in the prison camps in Germany. This lifeline must be strengthened now. This is the important "follow through" period that means life or death to many.

Our casualties in hospitals both overseas and in Canada must receive the consistent thoughtful care which it has been our privilege to provide since the beginning of this cruel war. The output of supplies and comforts must be continued. Blood serum must be in readiness on all battle-fields and in all hospitals.

And on the home front the Red Cross is pledged to build Lodges in connection with the military hospitals in Canada where patients may meet with their kin in a home-like atmosphere, where their relatives may be accommodated if need be.

It would be folly to suppose that when the last shot is fired Canadian Red Cross could just fold up its hands and sit back. Never in all history have so many countries been in need of immediate and extensive help.

When the Canadian Red Cross representative asks for your donation, give from the heart. Give to Canadian Red Cross every dollar that you can possibly spare.

INNISFAIL TO HAVE WATER SYSTEM

Residents of Innisfail voted almost unanimously on February 28th to install waterworks and sewers in the town. The vote was: For waterworks, 176; against, 16.

The waterworks and sewer by-law approved by the people of Innisfail permits the Town Council to spend up to $100,000 for this purpose. Owing to shortage of labor and materials little progress is expected on installation of the system until after the war, but the groundwork has been laid and Innisfail will have waterworks as soon as it is possible to construct the system.

The Town Council of Didsbury has approved of a plan to install waterworks and sewage in Didsbury, but this does not insure a system being installed here. A by-law must be prepared and submitted to the ratepayers, and no doubt this will be done in due course.

When the by-law is submitted it should be endorsed by every ratepayer who has the interests of the Town at heart. Waterworks will make Didsbury one of the leading towns of the province, and as a post-war project it ranks supreme.

Is Didsbury going to lag behind in post-war years? Let's take a lesson from our neighboring town of Innisfail and boost for water and sewage in Didsbury.

ALL THIS—NOT HEAVEN, TOO

After a busy life, an old-timer died. The first thing he knew, a butler in another world was showing him a palatial guest room, saying: "This, sir, is your suite. The only rule here is: You ring and I bring. Just press that button and I will provide whatever your heart desires."

About a month later, the Yankee sat in his easy chair surrounded by cigars, decanters, shotguns, fishing rods, radio, and all else that a man could wish. But there was fire in his eye. He jabbed the buzzer. The butler appeared:

"Here, you! I want something to do. I want WORK."

"Sorry, sir, but work is the only thing that we do not provide here."

"What! If I can't have work, I would just as soon be in hell!"

"But, sir," replied the butler, "where did you think you were?"

USE CLEAN SEED

If there is any one thing more important than another to a farmer, it is clean seed. In a surprisingly short time it will be seeding time again and farmers should be thinking about having their seed cleaned and tested for germination. The use of clean, well graded seed is one of the best forms of crop insurance. Clean seed means more production and more earnings.

NEW REGULATIONS
RECOMMENDED FOR LIVESTOCK

New regulations have recently been adopted by the Alberta authorities governing the importation of livestock from Canada, now in effect.

The only substantial change from the present regulations is in respect to the certification of freedom from tuberculosis in the case of cattle originating other than in accredited herds or accredited areas and other cattle.

Cattle exported from areas in Canada, which are in the process of accreditation, must have proved negative to the tuberculin test within thirty days prior to shipment and the herd or herds in which they originated must have proved negative to the test within the previous twelve months.

The animal must show a negative test for the animals exported, including the entire herd in which they originated within the preceding thirty days.

The best thing to have up your sleeve is a funny bone.

NEWMAN, M.B.E., who has returned to the Canadian Pacific Railway after nearly four years' service to Federal Aircraft Limited for war work, heads the new department of research, which will examine all types of rail equipment to obtain the economy and efficiency of transportation imperative if Canada is to hold her own in post-war trade. (Quebec, April 1943) Mr. Newman, in 17 years from apprentice to chief mechanical engineer of the C.P.R. He was recently named to the Order of British Empire in 1943 for his services with Federal Aircraft, a Crown corporation of which he was president and general manager.

RECOMMEND SEED TREATMENT

Organic mercury dusts are definitely increasing in favour as a means of controlling smut, blight, etc., affecting cereal grains. In addition to controlling the same diseases as formaldehyde they will also control the seed-borne root rots of all cereals.

Formaldehyde, the organic mercury dusts will not control loose smut of wheat or barley. An advantage in the use of organic mercury dusts is that they will not affect the seed in the germinating strength of seeds, particularly wheat and oats, as does the formaldehyde treatment.

In experiments conducted during the past season at Edmonton and Lethbridge by the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, the formaldehyde seed treatment of sound, healthy wheat reduced the emergence of seedlings 36 and 47 per cent, as well as reducing the yield one-half and two-thirds respectively over that for the organic mercury dusts. In the treatment of oats and barley, formaldehyde seed treatment causes some reduction in emergence and yield of oats, but usually very little in the case of barley.

Present recommendations are therefore in favour of treatment of seed wheat, oats and barley with organic mercury dusts. Such treatment is good insurance against losses from several smuts of wheat, oats and barley as well as loose smut of oats. In addition the grower is assured of the prevention of loss from seed-borne, root rot organisms.

SCHOOL HOLIDAYS IN ALBERTA

A return to normal school holidays, proposed by Hon. R.E. Andley, Minister of Education, in the Legislature, is expected to meet with general approval. If the proposal is accepted, summer holidays will run from July 7 to September 10 and the ten day Easter holiday will be restored.

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP

TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD

GIVE!

Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbours, and all the good folks up and down the fair Dominion of ours. You will send help, yes, life itself—to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and—GIVE!

Your Money is Needed as Never Before

HAYWIRE'S A HELP... BUT

Haywire comes in mighty handy for many an emergency repair around the farm. But it won't do when farm machinery and other expensive equipment breaks down. It's then that repairs and replacements can run into real money.

Loans to take care of essential repairs or replacements are always available at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada. Money spent for such purposes is money well invested, because a breakdown on the farm often leads to serious and costly trouble. PRAISE CANADA'S FOOD PRODUCTS

Canada's food producers have done an amazing war job, said K.W. Taylor, co-ordinator of the Foods Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in a recent address to the Saskatchewan Dairy Association conference in Regina.

Since 1939 Canadian farmers have increased the volume of production by an average of 40 per cent despite a decrease of 20 per cent in the manpower. 1944 figures alone showed increases of 71 per cent in meats; 68 per cent in eggs, 57 per cent in grain, 22 per cent in fruit and vegetables and 13 per cent in total milk.

Given decent international economic arrangements, there can be little danger of producing too much food as world-wide demand is far greater than production, Mr. Taylor declared. Analysing our present distribution he showed that Canadian food goes to the Armed Forces; U.K. (principal canned salmon, wheat, bacon, eggs and cheese); other United Nations (Russia, Greece, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and North Africa); to ships' stores which leave Canada with supplies; to Canadian troops to see them home again; Prisoner of War parcels (numbering about 8 million a year and each containing 10 lbs. of food); to overseas canteens (principally canned fruits, vegetables, meats, pickles, soups, cheeses); to Newfoundland and British West Indies and to Canadian civilians. Even with rationing on short commodities, our civilians are eating more and better food than ever before.

International trade is a war end approach and mode of international affairs and Britain which has existed on monotonous diet during the past two years. From the economic standpoint alone, Canada has strong interests in contributing to peace and prosperity of Europe. Illustrating political and social confusion in Belgium and Greece, Mr. Taylor said that such disturbances were partly due to privations of cold weather clothing and that if similar repetitions were to be avoided the United Nations, of which Canada is a part, must bring quick and efficient relief.

INITIAL WHEAT PRICE SET AT $1.25 A BUSHEL

Trade Minister MacKinnon announced last Saturday the inclusion of a firm limitation of 14 bushels per authorized acre in producers' marketing of wheat in the 1945-46 crop year, beginning August 1, and said the government would take steps to insure the continuation of the fixed initial price of $1.25 per bushel for No. 1 Northern wheat in store Fort William, Port Arthur and Vancouver.

The wheat policy for 1945-46 includes continuation of the issuance of participation certificates.

Mr. MacKinnon emphasized the limitation of marketing of wheat to 14 bushels per authorized acre is 'final' and will not be altered at a later date.

AMERICAN SPORTSMEN CAN BRING FIREARMS INTO CANADA

It no longer will be necessary for sportsmen in the United States to secure a permit for bringing guns, rifles and shotguns into Canada for purposes of hunting.

The new order from the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Ottawa is a reversal to pre-war procedure, which required a weapon permit for shotguns and rifles, secured either before entry to Canada was made or within a reasonable time afterwards. Revolvers and pistols on persons or in a vehicle, required a permit, but not for Automatic pistols were not admitted.

Complete information covering tourists' and sportsmen's outfit or equipment is available from the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa.

FLOOR PRICES

(By H.G.L. Strange)

The Government has passed an Act to support the prices of agricultural products during the transition period from war to peace. The sum of 200 million dollars has been appropriated by Parliament to cover the expenditure for the period. The object of the Act is to endeavor to secure a fair relationship between the return to agricultural producers and those of other occupations.

According to the Searle Index the present price of wheat gives a bushel of wheat a purchasing power over the things farmers have to buy by 1.6 per cent greater than a bushel had in 1913-14; 100 pounds of hogs now have a purchasing power of 3.2 per cent greater than they had in 1913-14; 100 lbs. of lamb now have a purchasing power of 17.6 per cent greater than in 1913-14; and 100 lbs. of steers have now a purchasing power of 7.1 per cent greater than in 1913-14. Hourly wages received by people in industrial occupations, however, have a considerably higher purchasing power over the things labour has to buy than such workers had in 1913-14.

If farmers, therefore, are to have a fair relationship with those of other occupations, their agricultural prices during the transition period would have to be not far away from present prices. Much, however, will probably depend upon the quantities of agricultural products the Government can sell abroad, and upon the prices received.

Large Collection Is Found In A Forest In Britain

A two-acre kiln yielding the largest collection of Roman pottery found in Britain in recent generations was discovered recently through a chance remark of a Hume Guardsman, an archaeologist disclosed.

From the kiln, in forest land of Northeast Hampshire, were taken many truckloads of fragments of extraordinarily fine pottery used nearly 2,000 years ago in the third century of Roman occupation.

The archaeologist Maj. A. G. Wade of Bletchley, Hampshire, said a Hume Guardsman of his company told him that his grandfather had spoken of old pottery in the forest.

The pottery, which he said disclosed a process of decoration unknown to modern experts, will go to the British Museum.

Scottish Woman Got Along With A German When They Conversed In Latin

A young schoolmistress in North Scotland had just returned to her home with her mother and sister when she saw a strange, tall man standing outside a window. She looked to the door and saw that he looked tired and dirty. She asked him in English who he was. The man did not understand, so she asked him in Gaelic and French, but still he did not answer. Then she tried Latin.

"Quis es?" she said. (Who are you?)

"Germanus sum," the man replied. "Missa pauperum ad dominum ambulavi" (I am a German). I have walked seven miles from the house).

"Hoc remaneat quod custodes vocemus," she told him, and the German almsman, who had failed to be caught that it meant "Stay here while we call the authorities."

He gave the three women his revolver and sat in the house waiting in schoolbook Latin until an armed guard arrived. London Daily Mail.

Will Meet Demand

Experts Predict No Rubber Shortage After The War

In the first few years after the war the world rubber plantations and synthetic plants will produce nearly twice the rubber needed to fill the huge pent-up world demand, a special group of British, American and Dutch experts estimated.

They predicted, however, that over a longer period of "every marked upward trend" in consumption an expanded world economy would consume full natural and synthetic rubber output. Until that time they indicated natural rubber sources alone can total world demand.

In a report released by the U.S. state department, the experts estimated that within three or four years after liberation of the rubber-rich Far East, natural rubber production would reach 1,500,000 tons a year. Estimated world productive capacity for synthetic, it added, will approximate 1,350,000 tons.

Although there will be a worldwide "banked-up demand" for rubber and its products consumption of both natural and synthetic is not expected to exceed 1,500,000 tons annually for a few years, the report said.

Even the realization of this estimate, it noted, "depends on the maintenance of a high level of economic activity in the major consuming countries of the world."

Unless there is a "sudden large development" of existing or new, uses of rubber, there will be a "marked disequilibrium" between world production and consumption, which, a few years after the many rubber plantations of the Dutch East Indies and Malaya Peninsula resume full operation. But eventually, it said, new uses for rubber will solve the problem of over-production.

The experts also consider the probable trend of production costs but concluded that definite estimates would be "purely speculative" because of uncertainties about Japanese natural rubber areas and because the synthetic industry in this country has developed on a large scale "only recently."

The report was especially significant because of the increasing stature of the U.S. synthetic industry and the big stake of Britain and the Netherlands in the rubber resources of the Far East. This country is expected to continue at least some synthetic plants after the war.

Cadet Corps For Girls In The Three Services Is Discussed

Cadet corps for girls in the three services may be included in the post-war youth program.

The Dominion inter-service cadet committee, in Winnipeg, to discuss joint cadet training with heads of departments of education said in a statement it "has carefully studied the inclusion of girls in cadet training, and is in favor of the scheme."

The statement added that after further consideration a recommendation will be forwarded to the chief of staff.

Then she tried Latin.

"I'm expecting a report from Harris this morning, Ethel," Mrs. Irvin told her secretary.

"Everybody says he's a wizard at whittling down evaluations," approved the secretary. "He'll fix you a bargain in taxes, but he'll charge you a fee."

Mrs. Irvin's round face set in stubborn lines. "I don't care," she declared. "It'll be worth it. He's a shyster but I haven't the slightest compunction about hiring him. The Government is trying to do me right now." Her well massaged brow wrinkled at the piles of unprinted shrubs stacked on the terrace outside. "This Norwegian gardener the agency is sending had better be all right," she said. "I specified that he must be over draft age so I'll take what they say. I suppose, Can you believe it, Ethel? This place is appraised at $70,000! I couldn't get half that if . . ."

"Unless you divided it into lots," mumbled the secretary. "Then you'd get a good deal more."

Mrs. Irvin flushed. "I certainly am not going to cut my garden into building lots," she snapped. "I am taxed at a ridiculous high rate on an out-of-date appraisal."

"Of course," agreed the secretary hastily. "I just meant . . ."

"And I must protect myself against legalized robbery!" Mrs.

Irvin broke off, looking up, astonished, at a tall man in the doorway. "I was sent by the employment agency," he said in careful English. Mrs. Irvin needed dismissal to her secretary. Called after her, "Bring me that report as soon as it comes," and turned her attention to the gardener.

In spite of a new, badly fitting suit there was something magnificent about the tall, dark, slim, Dinky. Mrs. Irvin was reminded of a boyish violinist riding their ships in Nove seas. His steady blue eyes had an air of command. He strode forward and handed her a card from the agency. His name, appropriately, was Ericson. His hair was light. It could be gray. She studied the card. He was fifty-six.

"Your references?" suggested Mrs. Irvin.

He pulled a portfolio from under his arm. "These will show you what I have done."

Mrs. Irvin gave a cry of delight. Colored photographs of the most gorgeous garden she had ever seen. Formal hedgerows cut in quiet patterns encircled a stone fountain. Beyond evergreens majestic in their grouping framed patches of red blossoming shrubs and masses of deep blue hydrangeas.

"Our Norwegian wild pansies and forget-me-nots," he explained.

"Lovely!" cried Mrs. Irvin. "I still want you to do a wild flower garden for me. Did you do all this?"

"The garden is very old, but for the past thirty years I have had charge of it."

Mrs. Irvin was looking at a view of the house, an enormous stone structure like a medieval castle. She paid her old gardener $85. This man would expect a good deal more, she was sure.

Her secretary came in. "Mr. Harris's report, Mrs. Irvin."

Mrs. Irvin glanced at the estimate and beamed. With taxes pared like this she could afford a first class gardener. "Ericsson," she smiled. "I want you to take charge here and develop some unusual planting arrangements. Now about your salary. Would a hundred a month be prepared to go a good deal higher, but the man need not eagerness."

"I should give it, sir!"

He had been asked. What a bargain! He was really a landscape artist. Entranced, she studied the pictures. "Where is this place?"

"The estate is on the edge of Narvik, about the city," he told her. "I left there a year ago."

"Narvik? Then you saw the German invasion?" She looked at him curiously. "Were you in the battle?"

"There was no battle. For six months before the Germans came we all knew what was going to happen, but everybody was afraid. Citizens would swear were loyal were secret Nazis agents. I spoke out. Abruptly he was silent.

Mrs. Irvin was interested. "Tell me about it," she demanded. "Where were you when the city was taken? What did they do? How?"

He put a big forefinger on the picture in her hand. "They," he said.

"I stood and watched the German ships sail into the harbor. There were moments of light and moment of fear. It was a perfect order matched of the ships and took the city. That was all. They were expected. There was no resistance. Their advance guard had attended to every detail." Only the trembling of his hands betrayed his agitation.

The association, however, endorsed air cadet squadrons and promised a flying instruction rate for cadets as near cost as possible. Scholarships from each club annually will be made to enhance higher instruction.

President H. E. Dougall of Port Arthur spoke of the possibility of getting aircraft suitable for instructing at reasonable rates.

Want To Make Canada Air-Conscious By Offering Greater Opportunities

Foresighting the great post-war era of air travel, Royal Canadian Flying Clubs, which met at Port Arthur, aim at making Canada "air-conscious" by offering youth greater opportunity to earn "wings."

Autograph System

Method Adopted By Reporter To Secure A Signature

It is relatively easy for one famous person to obtain the autograph of an other, but difficult for any Tom, Dick or Harry to get them. We know a reporter, however, who had a trick that always worked, and he had possibly one of the largest and most valuable collections in the world.

He sat next to us at a farwell dinner given to Capt. Scott, on the eve of his departure on his fatal journey to the South Pole. He wanted Scott's name and he showed us his technique. On the front page of a large book he had pasted a photo-graph of a well-known character whom he had the misfortune to be. This is my little daughter, aged five.

"You mean, dear me! How dreadful! You hear of such things but you don't realize," she was nervously folding Harris's estimate. "Of course we in America have our burdens. Taxes are heavy, but . . ."

"They should be paid gladly!"

With shaking fingers she tore Harris's report. It fluttered from her hands like confetti. "Right, Mr. Ericson," she agreed in a choked voice. "Any taxes in America are a bargain."

DE LUXE AIR TRAVEL.

The London Daily Mail says a new "flying hotel" will carry high British and American war effort emissaries on future urgent Atlantic crossings.

AN ANCIENT MONASTERY

Sent into the middle of a 1,000-foot precipice, 1,000 feet above sea level, is the Monastery of St. Nicholas, near Trebinje, on the Black Sea. It was built in 1360 and is believed to have been established more than 1,300 years ago.

Hudson Bay Route

The War Has Attracted Attention To The Northern Part

A revival of interest in the development of the Hudson Bay sea route to Europe comes with the prospect of the end of the war with Germany. The war has established Hudson Bay as a stage on the air route to Europe, but there are possibilities also in the southern seaway.

Cargoes of Canadian wheat may find their way for the rehabilitation of war-torn countries by this short sea voyage, and wheat will perhaps continue to go to Great Britain in the years to come, if nothing is done deliberately to stop this not unnatural route from being developed.

But it is clear that there are other possibilities before the Hudson Bay port. And Newfoundland for one is interested in them.

Newfoundland is, of course, a great exporter of fish, but it must import many other essential foods. While flour and flour products are natural feed products for fresh, cured or salted fish. In addition, Newfoundland might be glad to take dairy products as milk and eggs which are becoming larger in the prairie farming scheme.

While perhaps many Newfoundlanders have not been brought to Canada by the war, many prairie lads have found themselves in Newfoundland. They will have been alive to such possible developments as might have been discussed in such places as St. John's and Corner Brook where ships could set out for Port Churchill.

At least there should be no such hampering of the Hudson Bay sea route as the part of privileged interests as went on in years before the war.

It would also be the part of wisdom to keep open good use and repair all avenues of communication in the days to come. They all have their value and can serve the wider common good. Ottawa Citizen.

Has Best Plan

Canada Sets Standard For Rehabilitation Of War Veterans

The Canadian government has developed a program of rehabilitation for war veterans more far-reaching than those of either the United Nations, Hon. Ivan Mackenzie, minister of veterans' affairs said in an address over a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network.

He said Canada's program set a new standard in care of wounded veterans and in pensions. It aimed also to make good, so far as possible, the handicap of loss of time in those precious years when a man would be normally training for his life's work.

The ultimate objective of the measure enacted was to ensure that every veteran would have the opportunity to enjoy a normal life, re-immerse in employment, comforts of home and freedom from want.

The association, however, endorsed air cadet squadrons and promised a flying instruction rate for cadets as near cost as possible. Scholarships from each club annually will be made to enhance higher instruction.
